CHAPTER I

INDIAN ACCOUNT

Old Point—Norridgewocks—Father Druillette—Father Rasle—Mas- sacre at Old Point

The story of the Indian in the region of the Kennebec is one full of interest to every student of the history of the State of Maine. Especially is this record interesting to the citizen of Skowhegan, for near her borders came the tragic end of the famous Norridgewock tribe of Indians, who had for generations past roamed the wilds of this region from Merrymeeting Bay to Moosehead Lake in perfect peace and security. This sad end has made Old Point—the scene of its occurrence—a land mark in the history of the redman of New England. From the peculiar circumstances connected with this far-famed place it is destined to become, in the coming years, more familiar than now.

We of English descent are naturally inclined to defend the action of our ancestors in the great struggle to subdue the wild and untamed continent of North America. Great was their undertaking, and great were the results achieved. But we cannot forget that they were human and as we view things in the light of subsequent events we can see where errors occurred. In no case was committed a graver offense against the moral teachings of the Puritans, which the New England people were supposed to exemplify, than in the cruel murder—for it can be given no other designation—of Father Sebastain Rasle at Old Point in the town of Madison, in the latter part of August, 1724. This sad event has been the subject of many an article from the pen of poet and historian. A monument has been erected on the spot and it stands today the silent reminder of the life and labors of a highly cultured, thoroughly sincere and wonderfully energetic man.

The story of the Norridgewocks is a long one if told in detail. It is as well a sad one, because it is a story of the struggle of a tribe for its very existence in the land it called home, and worst of all it was a losing fight.

We learn that the tribes east of the Connecticut River were in the early times called the Abenquois, but that this title came in time to be largely restricted to the valley of the Kennebec River. The Norridgewocks were a part of this tribe and in later years gave their name to the tribe being the last to remain in this region.

The date when the fortunes of this tribe began to wane is perhaps correctly designated as 1607, when the Popham expedition came to the mouth of the Kennebec River. This was the advent of the white man and signal of the destruction of the home of the native tribes. The English purpose was to obtain ownership of the land, and sad to say, many of their agents were determined to get the lands regardless of the means used to do so.

It should be mentioned here that the French were also interested in this very portion of land which was occupied by the Abenakis tribe. The two nations, England and France, were, on this continent as well as at home, extremely hostile. The Indian was an instrument as well as an obstacle. The French used the Indian as such and so far as their purposes were carried out he remained so to the end. The French had circumstances as well as judgment on their side in the early years. In the way of circumstances, the religion of the French was best suited to win and hold the Indian. The cold, unattractive and stern rites of the Puritan Church had no charms for the "Child of Nature." On the other hand the Catholic Church with its bright symbols and attractive services held the Indian's interest and won his faith and love, when handled by a skilful and enthusiastic priest. So it was but natural that when the French made their effort to gain the control of the District of Maine that they should endeavor to enlist with them the aid of the redmen.

The main points in the history of the Norridgewocks are the following: The coming of Father Drullette; the coming of Father Rasle; and the final destruction of the tribe by the assassination of Rasle and his followers at Norridgewock, 1724. Besides these, of course, are the continuous difficulties with the English over the land titles which several times led to bloodshed.

In 1642, an Indian who had become converted at Quebec, came down the Kennebec telling of the majesty and beauty of the new faith. He went as far as Cushnoc (Augusta). From this means considerable intercourse sprung up between the Indians of this valley and the Northwest. A few years after a delegation from the Abenakis appeared at Quebec asking that a missionary be sent to them on the Kennebec. As a result of their appeal the renowned Father Gabrielle Druillette was sent to this section. He started on his mission in 1646. He went about in all sections of the valley ministering to the needs of his simple followers. He established a mission at a point about three miles above Cushnoc. The next year he returned to Quebec, and the Abenakis saw no more of him till 1650, though they sent each year a delegation asking for his return to them.

In 1650, he returned to them, and remained with them a part of the time—being engaged in diplomatic work at Boston in behalf of the tribe a part of the time. He left this valley forever in the month of March, 1652. After fearful hardships he reached Quebec. His loss was keenly felt by the Indians. He had been a companion, a teacher, an adviser, a friend to all of them as well as their religious leader. He labored hard to oppose the English. His labors were not successful, but he raised the standard of living among the tribes along the valley. He won their love and they cherished his memory always after. This remarkable man was born in France, in 1593, and died in Quebec in 1679, having passed nearly forty years in missionary work.

The arrival of Father Sebastain Rasle in 1695, was the signal for the Indians to take hope once more and resist the advance of the whites. He counselled them on matters of diplomacy and was their representative in the many conferences with their enemies. For this part, courageously played by Rasle, he won the hatred of the English.

He established his mission at Norridgewock at the time of his arrival instead of at Augusta as Druillette had done. He in time built a chapel here and adorned it with many beautiful equipments, which at once pleased his followers and held their attention and respect. Here he drew the remaining families of the tribe and from this time on the history of the labors of Rasle is a history of the Norridgewocks.

We cannot go into detail concerning the many conflicts of diplomacy and some of arms in which the English and Norridgewocks were engaged after Rasle's arrival. Rasle was a very busy man during the twenty-nine years of his stay in Madison. The thing which was considered the climax of affairs among the Indians by the English was the formal notice given by the Indians to the English, in a short time after his arrival, to vacate certain lands they had taken possession of, under threat of war. Troops were called out and every preparation was made to punish the rebels. Rasle was considered by the English to be at the bottom of all the trouble and a reward was offered for his capture. An expedition was organized for his capture. It was a failure but came near resulting otherwise. Rasle was in hiding in the forest near by, but his dwelling was entered and his library and other belongings left in his hasty flight were burned.

This attempt was viewed by the Indians as a full and sufficient reason for war. All the other tribes felt that this outrage must be avenged, and prepared to do each its part in seeing that justice should be done. Not long after the burning of the Chapel at Norridgewock the Indians fell upon the settlements and again the woods of the Pine Tree State rang with the whoops of the savage, mingled with the death cries of their victims. The English decided upon another attempt to capture Rasle. Captain Moulton, with a picked party, ascended the river to Norridgewock, but found the village deserted. Rasle, aware that a reward was offered by the government for his head, had taken himself and followers to a safer place. This time no destruction of property was attempted. This was the third attempt to take Rasle, either dead or alive, the second being only a short time before the one just mentioned.

The war continued with dreadful destruction. Men, women and children were killed at all points in Maine by the Indians. Whole settlements were wiped out in a single day or night. The whole section was terrorized. The English were now led to make another attempt to slay Rasle, whom they considered to blame for all this disaster.

Captain Moulton accompanied by Captain Harmon with a goodly company of troops set out once more for the beautiful village on the banks of the Kennebec. This expedition was attempted in the summer time, as the others, which had been all unsuccessful, had been such largely because of the snow. The troops started in whale boats on the 19th of August, 1724, and reached Ticonic on the day following. On the 21st the troops marched toward Norridgewock. Before night the force came upon a party of three persons near where the village of South Norridgewock stands today. The two women were shot. The father, fleet-footed, ran swiftly through the forest to carry warning to the village above. He was overtaken, however, by the bullets of his pursuers as he attempted to cross the river at a fording place. This victim was Bomaseen.

We are unable to state with any certainty the details of the advance upon the village. It has been handed down that the party crossed the river where the chief had fallen and marched to the high land a mile or two from the river, where they could overlook the village and decide upon plans for its destruction. The forces were divided. Harmon led a company toward a place where it was fancied a camp might be as a smoke could be seen winding from the forest. Moulton advanced upon the village with the other force. Leaving two parties in ambush he took the remainder and charged upon the huts. The village was at once in a panic. No organized resistance was made. The Indians were shot down in cold blood either by the attacking party or by those in ambush. Rasle was seen issuing forth from a cabin in his priestly garments and was instantly riddled with bullets. He fell at the foot of the cross he had erected with his own hands. He was surrounded by his faithful neophytes, seven of whom fell by his side. Thirty Indians were dead and half as many more were hobbling into the woods wounded. Not one of the assailants were hurt, save one of the Mohawks who had accompanied the party.

The purpose of the expedition was accomplished. The English destroyed the village, scalped Father Rasle and the other victims and wended their way down the river. This cruel murder has, since it was committed, ever been remembered in history and in local traditions. The grave of Rasle is marked by a monument. He will always be remembered as a man whose only offense was a devotion to the people he served, and constancy to his vows. His death was the end of the mission, though it was opened temporarily a few years later, but was soon abandoned. The surviving Indians went to St. Francis and were never more known in this valley which had been their beautiful, peaceful home from years before the knowledge of the white man. Where they fished the water-wheel revolves with lightning rapidity, where they hunted among the stately pines the farmer tills the soil, and where they camped in rude huts or cabins, the white man has congregated in large villages and cities to follow the pursuits of the modern age in which we live.

While we regret the cruel fate which befell the Norridge-wocks, we cannot wish that they had held their territory. The Indians and the Whites could not live in one portion of the country. The Indian wanted the forest left untouched, the streams unfettered. The white man's first move was to revolutionize the things the Indian regarded as necessary. While we mourn the fate that followed the race we can only say: "It was the natural result of the advent of a higher plane of civilization and progress, to which they were destined to give way."

CHAPTER II

LAND GRANTS, AND FIRST SETTLEMENTS.

The recitals in the grants made by the proprietors of the Kennebec Purchase, or the Plymouth Company, as they are better known, contain historical facts which are of general interest. All the original grants to the settlers in this section are of the same tenor, except the conditions as to the settling duties. In 1770, after Dr. McKeehnice had made his survey of the great lots, the proprietors found that additional inducements were necessary to procure settlers on the remote parts of their lands. They concluded to give a lot of 200 acres to each person who should settle on their lands in Canaan, (then including all of Skowhegan), or Norridgewock, "on condition that he actually settle or dwell thereon for the space of ten years, build a dwelling house thereon, and within three years of the time of his removing on said land, should clear up and put into grass five acres." Other minor provisions were made later for the settlers to work two years on the public roads, and to contribute toward the support of the Gospel, or to work two days in a year on a meeting house, all of which tended toward their own well-fare and happiness.

In 1771, under these encouragements, Joseph Weston, of Littleton, Mass., a man advanced in life, who had seven sons, the ancestors of all the Westons in Somerset County; Peter Heywood Esq., and Jonathan Oakes, who also had families; John Heyward, Isaac Smith and two other young men, all from the same vicinity, came to Ticonic in the summer season. They explored the country as far up as the Old Point, at the mouth of Sandy River. They found that the Intervales in many places had been cleared by the Indians a long time before, also had many of the small islands in the river. The places cleared were then covered with wild grass, from which they procured sufficient hay to winter a yoke of oxen and one or two cows. Hayward, (variously spelled Heywood, Hayward, Harwood and Howard), located on the Major Wyman farm, then including the Leighton farm and one other, also part of Great and Oaks Islands at the bend of the river. Mr. Weston, who is regarded as the first settler of Canaan, (now Skowhegan), built his log house near the bank of the river on the south side about three miles below Skowhegan Falls and made preparations to remove his family thither in the fall. With the help of his son and Isaac Smith, Mr. Weston planted the first crop to be harvested by white men, on the Great Island it is thought, which had partially or wholly been cleared by the Indians. He did not, however, get farther than Pownalboro (now Dresden) on his return trip, for the vessel was there stopped by the ice and he was obliged to remain there and at Vassalboro with his family until the next spring. One of his sons, Eli, then about twelve years old, and Isaac Smith, who was eighteen years of age, and a member of Mr. Weston's family, came with a yoke of oxen and two cows and wintered in Canaan. On April 30, 1772, Mr. Weston arrived at his new home in the wilderness. The cabin he had built was 20 ft. square (according to Eben Weston's "Early Settlers of Canaan,") and the roof probably covered with bark. Jonathan Oakes is considered the third settler in Canaan, although ancient documents show that he assisted in driving "four cattle from the State to Canaan" in 1771, thus showing that he came with the first settlers. Oakes also sent some of his goods here by Mr. Weston when he came with his family. It is thought that he settled here in 1772, perhaps at the same time Peter Heywood came with his family. He settled nearly opposite Heywood's place across the river and near Oaks Island, which Hanson, in his "History of Canaan and Norridgewock," said was given to him by Esq. Heywood. Oaks pond was also named for this settler or some member of his family.

During the summer of 1773 the proprietors employed John Jones, of Concord, Mass., a noted surveyor, familiarly called Black Jones, to run out lots for settlers. He surveyed the greater part of what was formerly called Bloomfield and a part of the rest of Skowhegan, and extended his survey on the south side of the river up into Norridgewock to the vicinity of the "rips." This whole survey he named "Canaan Plantation."

In the summer of 1774, Thos. Farrington was sent by the proprietors to survey lots for settlers in Norridgewock. His instructions were that he should run out lots seventy-five rods in width on the river and extend back one and one-half mile so as to include 200 acres in each lot. He commenced with lot No. 61 at Skowhegan Falls which was granted to Spaulding for his services as one of the committee, without requiring the usual "settling duties." Spaulding then lived in Pepperill, Mass. He afterwards sold his right to Daniel Steward, Esq. It was later owned by the Coburns, and now comprises a portion of this village. Farrington did but little more than to take a survey of the river, mark the corners of the lots on the bank, and return his plan with 200 acres laid down on each lot, according to his instruction. But upon the actual measurements of his lots, by the bounds marked on the banks of the river and by the range lines designated on his plan they are found to contain, on an average, 240 acres, and some 300 acres.

In 1772 John Hale came from Seabasticook and helped Weston's boys sow their grain while their father went to Massachusetts. Isaac Smith settled near Wesserrunsett, and Abraham his son, born in 1775, is said to have been the first white child born in Canaan; William Oakes was born only a few days after. Jeremiah Pease settled in 1773, but did not remain long. Mordecai Moore came in 1774 and worked a while but soon went to Clinton. Seth Wyman came in 1773 and settled near Heywood's location. Joel Crosby came up from Seabasticook the same year to assist Weston, Heywood and Oakes, in erecting a mill on Skowhegan Island. He afterwards went up to Starks and seems to have been the principal millwright in the vicinity. Dea. John White settled with his family in the spring of 1773. He came first alone in the summer of 1772. Jonas Parlin came in 1774 and settled near Skowhegan Falls. Daniel Steward came in 1775 and settled on one of the back farms in Bloomfield. Solomon, Phineas and Deacon William Steward came soon after these.

"Joseph Cleaveland came in 1777 and lived in 'Bloomfield Village.' Ephraim Brown came in 1774 and worked in the mill above the present village, camping near by. An Indian named Sabattis lurked about their camp till finding an opportunity in the absence of Brown, he stole from Brown's chest. He was seized and his hands tied behind him with a silk handkerchief and then put in Brown's keeping and taken to the house of senior Peter Heywood, Esq., for trial. Sabattis contrived to get at a sythe which hung in the snath across the fence and cut his hands loose. while Brown was unsuspecting of danger he attempted his death by wringing his neck in savage style. Brown discovered him in season to seize him and, though a very athletic Indian, Brown threw him to the ground and sprang to the kitchen for his gun while Sabattis tried to escape his almost inevitable fate. Brown's ball entered the vitals of the Indian notwithstanding which he jumped two fences and on to the third from which he fell, dead. Brown considered himself unsafe and moved to New Hampshire. He was thereafter forced to kill two or three Indians on different occasions in self-defense, yet he lived to a good old age. This Sabattis was buried on Mr. Heywood's farm. The river at one time made an advance upon his resting place and left his bones to whiten on the banks."—EUSEBIUS WESTON, ESQ.

In the year 1777 the house in which Peter Heywood lived was picketed as a fort, but it was never found necessary to use it as the Indians were peaceable.

Deacon Solomon Clark came in 177—, and settled on land later occupied by Hon. Bryce McLellan. Clark planted the first orchard in this town.

From Hanson's History we learn that a tax was assessed upon "Winslow and all Adjacents" in 1781. This term "all adjacents" included what is now Skowhegan, and several other towns. Those tax payers who were then in the limits of Canaan, now Skowhegan, were the following.

Willard Sears, Jonathan Oakes, James Turner, Peter Heywood, Asa Heywood, John Moore, John Wesson, Daniel Smith, John Emery, Edward Hartwell, Solomon Steward, Josiah Goodridge, Samuel Steward, John Emery, Samuel Emery, Joseph Emery, Peter Heywood Jr., Joseph Weston, Eli Weston, Samuel Weston, Phineas Steward, John White, Levi Powers, John Tozer, Elias Tozer, Jeremiah Tozer, Seth Wyman, Isaac Smith, Jonathan Tozer, Jonathan Emery, Silas Warener, Adam Cason, Joseph Lancaster.

The following story shows the importance of the housewife in the early home: It was said that Mrs. Heywood could do four things at once, rock the cradle with one foot while the other turned the flax wheel, holding the flax thread in one hand, and with the other do the churning.

It was told that Peter Heywood had a great liking for conversation with his neighbors, but was sometimes called upon by his busy wife to do the churning. On one occasion he was doing the churning when he saw a passing neighbor and slipped out, not returning for two or three hours. In the meantime Mrs. Heywood finished the churning and took the butter from the churn, leaving the buttermilk. Peter's conscience must have troubled him for he at length slipped back into the kitchen and began to churn vigorously. He churned and churned but there was no sign of the butter coming. At last he asked why that butter did not come; "Oh," answered his wife, "the butter came two hours ago, while you were away, that is only the buttermilk."

It is not the object of this book to give a complete account of the settlers. The foregoing shows who were the first to arrive, to redeem the uncultivated land from its primeval, or uncivilized nature. During the years prior to 1800 many others who sought homes on the alluring hills and valleys of this section joined those already mentioned. We give below copies of the first tax-lists of the towns of Bloomfield, dated 1814; and of Skowhegan, dated at Milburn, 1823. These lists contain all the names of males over 21 then living in what is now Skowhegan.

CHAPTER IV

INCORPORATION

No better idea of the hardships of the early settlers of this town can be gained than by the perusal of the early records of their municipal acts. One of these has come to the notice of the writer, gleaned from the records of the town of Canaan. It follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

In House of Representatives, September 30, 1783. On the petition of Solomon Clark and John White of a plantation called Canaan, or Howard's Town, praying for which, with regard to their late taxes, and that the said plantation be incorporated or otherwise enabled to raise and collect taxes; Resolved, that the treasurer of this Commonwealth be directed to recall his executions, if any has issued for taxes against the said plantation, and stay the issuing any executions for the future until the further order of the General Court. And is resolved that the said Plantation further be empowered to assess themselves for such sum or sums of money as they shall find necessary for the support of a Gospel Minister in Plantation aforesaid.

Sent up for concurrence.

TRISTAM POLTON, Speaker.

The Senate, 15 of October, 1783.

Rec'd and concurred,

SAMUEL ADAMS, President.

Approved,

JOHN HANCOCK.

The first meeting called after the resolutions passed in general court, was held at the house of Peter Heywood, Jr., on Monday the fifteenth of March, 1784, at which meeting the inhabitants of the plantation voted as follows:

Article I. Chose Mr. John White, moderator.

Article II. Chose Mr. Samuel Weston, Clerk of this Plantation.

Article III. Chose Mr. Solo. Clark, Mr. William Steward, and Mr. Robert Hood, assessors.

Article IV. Chose Mr. Seth Wyman and Mr. Peter Heywood, collectors.

Article VI. Chose Mr. Phineas Steward and Mr. Daniel Smith to notify the inhabitants who live on the river to work on the highway division at Mr. Isaac Smith's; and Mr. William Steward to Notify those who live on the Middle Road; and Mr. Samuel Emery those who live on the third range of lots.

Article VII. Chose Mr. Solomon Clark and Mr. Solo. Steward, Surveyors.

Meeting dismissed.

This is the first record of choosing officers in the Plantation, but that there had been men chosen or appointed before is proven by the fact that the warrant for that meeting was signed by Solomon Clark, Samuel Weston and Isaac Smith, assessors for the Plantation of Canaan or Howard's Town. (Sometimes called Wesserrunsett.)

Again and again the little Plantation talked of incorporation. In Nov., 1784, they voted a plan for incorporation and voted to send Dr. Whitaker to get the town incorporated. Jan., 1785, Solomon Clark, Samuel Weston and Robert Hood were chosen a committee to petition the General Court for incorporation, and again in December, 1786, "Voted to have new plan made of the old Plantation of Canaan agreeable to original land marks and chose Samuel Weston surveyor to make said plan and agreed to allow him one bushel of rye per day for his services, and also chose Solomon Clark, Perley Rogers and Abram Steward to assist s'd surveyor and voted to allow each of them one-half bushel of corn per day while they are employed in that service."

After patient waiting, on June 18, 1788, the town of Canaan was incorporated.

The first town officers of this town were elected at the first town meeting held on Aug. 21, 1788; Daniel Cony, Esq., was chosen moderator; Samuel Weston, town clerk; Samuel Weston, John Fowler, and Seth Wyman, selectmen and assessors; Levi Powers, constable; Joseph Weston, treasurer. In 1790, Samuel Weston was allowed "eighteen shillings for protracting and drawing" a plan of the old Plantation of Canaan.

The early history of Canaan is that of the present town of Skowhegan, as no settlement was made within the bounds of Modern Canaan until about 1800.

The first burial ground was fenced in the year 1790.

In 1814, the town was divided, and Bloomfield, including all that part of ancient Canaan south-west of the Kennebec, was incorporated a separate town.

ACT OF INCORPORATION OF THE TOWN OF BLOOMFIELD

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

In the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Fourteen.

An act to divide the town of Canaan, and to establish the westerly part thereof a separate town by the name of Bloomfield.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled and by the authority of the same, that all that part of the town of Canaan, lying west of the Kennebec river in the County of Somerset as described by the following bounds, be and hereby is established as a separate town by the name of Bloomfield, viz.: Easterly by a line drawn on the middle of Kennebec river, including all the Islands belonging to the jurisdiction of the town of Canaan, by its act of incorporation (excepting Oaks Island) and northerly, westerly and southerly by its present bounds, and the inhabitants of the said town of Bloomfield are hereby vested with all the powers and privileges, and shall also be subjected to all the duties and requisitions of other corporate towns according to the Constitution and laws of this Commonwealth.

Sec. 2 specifies what part of the old town's liabilities and property it shall receive, stating among other items that "the town of Bloomfield shall be entitled to hold four-sevenths parts of all the personal property belonging to the town of Canaan before the passing of this Act, and all future State and County taxes which may be levied on the said towns of Canaan and Bloomfield previous to a new valuation shall be assessed and paid in the proportion of four-sevenths by the town of Bloomfield and three-sevenths by the town of Canaan." Hence we understand that four-sevenths of the entire valuation of the original town of Canaan was included within the new town of Bloomfield.

Sec. 3 provided for the division of the Ministerial property, and Sec. 4 for the poor.

This Act was in the House of Representatives Feb. 4, 1814, and signed by Timothy Bigelow, Speaker, in the Senate the same day, and signed by John Phillips, President, and approved by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Caleb Strong, Feb. 5th, 1814.

The first town meeting of the citizens of this newly incorporated town was held at the South School house, near Seth Wyman's, on Monday, the 7th of March, at 12 o'clock. Esq. Currier was chosen moderator and the following list of town officers were elected: Josiah Locke, clerk; Eleazer Coburn, Bryce McLellan and Seth Currier, Esq., selectmen and assessors; Judah McLellan, Esq., town treasurer; Josiah Locke, constable and collector, collection to be at 3%.

On the question of separation from Massachusetts this town seems not to have been very decided, for the vote cast July 6, 1819, gave 48 in favor of, and 41 against establishing a separate state. In Canaan the vote was unanimous for separation.

MILBURN,—1823.

In 1823 the old town of Canaan was again divided, and the town of Milburn incorporated February 5th, of that year. The first annual meeting of this town was called to order by Daniel Steward, Esq., and the following gentlemen elected to serve as the first town officers: Joseph Patten, moderator; Samuel Weston, town clerk; Samuel Weston, Benj. Eaton and Joseph Merrill, selectmen and assessors; Josiah Parlin, town treasurer.

Nearly 2000 acres of the territory of Norridgewock was set off and annexed to Milburn in 1828. This included much of the land now covered by the northwestern part of the village.

In the year 1836 the name of this town was changed from Milburn to Skowhegan, the Indian name of the Falls. This name had long been attached to the village which had sprung up around the falls. It was the custom to license retailers and many other shops during these early days. In 1843, however, we find the people voted that but one person should have permission to sell ardent spirits, and that in 1846 it was voted "that there shall be no license given for anything."

In 1848 the Ministerial Fund was appropriated to build a town house. The house was erected the following year, and the upper story used as an Odd Fellows Hall.

SKOWHEGAN AND BLOOMFIELD UNITED, 1861

STATE OF MAINE, A. D. 1861

An Act to unite the towns of Skowhegan and Bloomfield.

Be it enacted in the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature assembled as follows:

Sec. 1. The towns of Skowhegan and Bloomfield, in the County of Somerset are hereby united and shall constitute one town by the name of Skowhegan, with all the powers and privileges and subject to all the duties of other towns.

Sec. 2 specified that all taxes heretofore assessed should be collected, and Sec. 3, that all debts due from or to the towns at the time should be paid to or by the respective towns, as though no union had been made.

Sec. 6 specified that whenever the new town should vote to build a new town house it should be located on Skowhegan Island unless a majority of each of the old towns should otherwise decide.

There were eleven sections to the Act.

This Act passed the House of Representatives, Feb. 18, and the Senate Feb. 19, 1861, and was signed by J. G. Blaine, Speaker of the House; J. H. Goodwin, President of the Senate; and approved by Gov. Israel Washburn Jr., Feb. 19, 1861.

The first meeting of the new town of Skowhegan was called by Chas. K. Turner, and was held March 18, 1861.

The following is a list of the selectmen, clerks and treasurers who have served the new town.

SELECTMEN AND ASSESSORS

1861-'2—Wm. Philbrick, J. B. Dascomb, Horace Eaton.

1863—James B. Dascomb, Horace Eaton, Daniel Snow.

1864—J. B. Dascomb, Daniel Snow, Nat'l Malbon.

1865-'6—J. B. Dascomb, Daniel Snow, Peter Malbon.

1867-'8—Wm. Philbrick, A. H. Wyman, John Swain.

1869-'70—Levi H. Folsom, Daniel Snow, Peter Malbon.

1871-'4—Levi H. Folsom, Daniel Snow, Horace Eaton.

1875-'7—Levi H. Folsom, Horace Eaton, James H. Lord.

1878—Levi H. Folsom, Horace Eaton, Nahum C. Steward.

1879—Barnett Whorff, Dan'l Snow, A. Kittridge Perkins.

1880—Hiram S. Steward, Albert R. Smiley, C. A. Marston.

1881—J. B. Dascomb, Chas. A. Marston, S. Frank Steward.

1882-'3—J. B. Dascomb, Isaac Dyer, S. Frank Steward.

1884—J. B. Dascomb, S. F. Steward, John Weston.

1885—Abel Prescott, S. F. Steward, John Weston.

1886—Abel Prescott, S. F. Steward, J. W. Packard.

1887—J. P. Blunt, J. W. Packard, Horace Eaton; W. H. Pearson and S. C. Emery were also assessors.

1888—Isaac Dyer, Horace Eaton, J. W. Packard.

1889-'90—Isaac Dyer, Horace Eaton, Llewellyn Goodwin.

1891—Wm. B. Snow, Levi C. Emery, R. Francis Parker.

1892—W. B. Snow, Levi C. Emery, R. F. Parker.

1893—William B. Snow, John H. Mitchell, R. F. Parker.

1894—Levi C. Emery, R. F. Parker, Llewellyn Goodwin.

1895—E. F. Danforth, R. F. Parker, Geo. L. Nay.

1896-'99—Levi C. Emery, R. F. Parker, Geo. L. Nay.

1900—Levi C. Emery, R. F. Parker, S. H. Bradbury.

1901—Levi C. Emery, S. H. Bradbury, A. H. Wyman.

1902-'4—R. F. Parker, S. H. Bradbury, A. H. Wyman.

CLERKS

INDUSTRIAL ACCOUNT

In the fall of 1773 a mill was begun on Skowhegan Island, by Joel Crosby, below the little falls on the south channel of the river; but a freshet came and destroyed what little was done, and they abandoned the attempt. After this the first mill in what was formerly Bloomfield was built by Solomon Steward Sr., on Currier brook, and answered the wants of the settlers. Before either of these attempts a few mills were built on the Wesserrunsett, but being across the river were too difficult of access to be of much benefit to many of the settlers.

Peter Heywood Sr., built on Skowhegan Island about 1790. This water power was the best on the falls, as but little was needed to be done to make it available. There is a natural channel through the ledge at the upper end of the island and over this the mill was placed. The water running through this left the south channel above the little falls and emptied into the north channel by the great falls, thus making a natural power. Peter Heywood probably bought the island from the Plymouth Co. and did not sell it until 1803. This mill on the island was built with a double sawmill above and a grist mill below. In later years one man used to tell how, about 1800, as a boy of seven he used to be put on the old white horse, a bag of corn behind him, and sent to mill, following the bridle path three miles through the woods, with part of the way nothing to guide him but spotted trees. Arriving at the river bank the boy would call to the miller who would row across, get the corn, take it back and grind it, then bring the meal back and put it on the horse and start him home. Previous to these mills the nearest grist mill was at Hallowell, which was then the metropolis of the state. The grain was taken down the river by boat, being a long, hard journey. Sometimes the corn was dried and pounded fine.

Solomon Stewart, Jr., erected the first dam across the west channel, and built a grist mill, about 1811. This mill was subsequently taken down and removed below the bridge, where Mr. Stewart and others built a saw mill. Andrew Morse built a saw mill, grist mill, and clothing mill, at the mouth of Currier brook. A Mr. Heald owned a sawmill on the north side of the river about 1820.

The first sawmill north of the river, after the mill on the Wesserrunsett (at one time owned by Judge McLellan) was built by Phineas Steward Sr., on a brook.

About 1792, James Malbon, Sr. built on the Wesserrunsett, at the place now known as Malbon's Mills in the northern part of the town. This mill was run by succeeding generations of the Malbons for many years. The mill here is now operated by Bradbury Bros. The next mills were built by Rev. John Cayford, on the site where Mr. Neil later run a mill. Cayford's grist mill was washed away in 1832 when occurred the great freshet on the Kennebec. The saw and grist mills then owned by William and John Weston and the carding mill, carried on by Luther Heald, were carried out, as also one span of the south bridge.

PRESENT-DAY INDUSTRIES

THE AMERICAN WOOLEN COMPANY

The first of the most important factories to be built here was that of the Coburn Woolen Mills. In 1875 Lewis Anderson came from Troy, N. Y., and started the project of building a woolen mill. A syndicate of wealthy citizens ably supported by that honored and public spirited man, Ex-Governor, Abner Coburn, formed a Stock Co. A two set mill was built and set to work, with Mr. Anderson as supt. and part owner. 75 hands were first employed, later the business increased and the management added two sets of machinery. In 1882 another fine brick structure was built and added to the old mill, further increasing the capacity of the plant.

In 1900 this mill became the property of the American Woolen Co., which has operated it successfully since that time. The capacity of the business has steadily increased until at the present time twelve sets of cards and fifty-nine looms are kept busy. About 200 hands are regularly employed. These mills have never been closed since they were first set in operation, except for Sundays and the holidays. The goods produced comprise men's suitings of different patterns. The product is about 16,000 yards per week. David Haig is agent, and William Elliot, paymaster.

MARSTON WORSTED MILLS

This is an industry which has become in a few years one of great import to the town of Skowhegan. The business was established in 1899 in a building located on the north side of the river front, by a stock company, consisting of C. A. Marston, pres.; Edward Gledhill, general mgr.; and R. T. Parent, treas. It was removed to its present location, in the fine building constructed for the purpose, in March, 1903. 275 people are now employed, and the number of looms has increased from 12 to 80. 20,000 yards of fine grade of worsted cloth for men's suiting are about the average weekly output. The weekly pay roll amounts to $2500. The present officers of the business are C. A. Marston, pres.; Edward Gledhill, general mgr.; and A. G. Blunt, treas.

PULP MILLS

The manufacture of ground wood pulp is one of the most important of all the varied industries in this town. This was begun previous to 1880. The first company interested in the business was the Carribassett Paper Company. This company was bought out by the Skowhegan Pulp Co. in 1891. The daily product is 18 tons of pulp, most of which is shipped to the Bowdoin Paper Co. in Topsham, and to the United Box Board Co. at Benton Falls. 30 men are employed, receiving $1,000 per month. Chas. E. Young is supt.; J. R. McLellan, pres.; and E. P. Page, treas.

The Riverside Pulp Co. located on the south side of the river is owned and operated by the same men as the Skowhegan Pulp Co. This was established as the Richards Paper Co. It has been under the present management since October, 1903. 12 men are employed. The monthly pay roll in this mill is about $450.

R. L. MITCHELL'S PLANT

Mr. R. L. Mitchell's wood working establishment is one which has made a steady and remarkable growth, the result of constant application and attentiveness to the development of a chosen line of work. Mr. Mitchell began, about 1872, in a shop belonging to C. O. Williams & Co, near the river, where had previously been carried on the manufacture of chisels, and then skates. About two years later he removed to the old wooden mill building, and two or three years later to J. H. Dane's mill. He established the business at the present plant in 1882. It now occupies over 12,000 square feet of floor space, and gives employment to 25 men who receive $900 each month for their labor. The first and chief articles manufactured here are step ladders, clothes dryers and horses, ironing boards, and other useful household furnishings are made from several varieties of hard wood, bought from the surrounding rural section.

COMMONWEALTH SHOE AND LEATHER CO.

This concern prosecutes a business which is the town's largest industry, and the business as run at the present furnishes employment to around 350 hands, bringing in a large amount of money to the community. This concern operates three separate factories, the one in this town, another in Gardiner, Maine, and a third in Whitman, Mass. The output is large and the cost of production is lowered to such an extent that the company has become very prosperous, much to the benefit of the town of Skowhegan.

The factory was built in 1882 for this same industry by local capitalists. It was occupied for 13 years by Keene Brothers, and then the Bloomfield Shoe Company took possession of the plant, operating it for six years. They were succeeded by the present concern five years ago. The building is 200 x 48 feet, five stories high, and built of brick. The goods manufactured by previous operators have been ladies' shoes exclusively, but the present company manufactures men's shoes entirely. An average of $600,000 worth of business is done yearly. The superintendent and manager, Mr. G. B. Stafford, has been connected with the plant since it was built in 1882, and has contributed largely to its success.

OILCLOTH MANUFACTURE

The manufacture of oilcloth was begun about 1855 by Gov. Abner and Philander Coburn. They operated the business until Jan., 1866, when C. M. Bailey of Winthrop bought the plant. The shops are situated on the Bloomfield side, on the outskirts of the village, and are now operated by C. M. Bailey's Sons & Co. Mr. G. W. Nash superintendent. When a full crew is employed this industry gives work to around 80 men, and puts out 1500 pieces a week. At present there are about forty men employed.

LUMBER, SASH AND BLIND MANUFACTORIES

J. H. Dane's sash and blind mill is, with one exception perhaps, the oldest established industry now in operation. This was established about 1860, by White and Dane. The firm became Dane & Allen, then Dane, Allen & Co. Fifteen years ago Mr. Dane assumed full control. His factory was erected in 1866 and has been in constant operation. The machinery is run by water power. Mr. Dane employs five men at this mill, and does $80,000 worth of business annually. He has another large factory at Madison.

Robinson Bros. manufacturers of sash and blinds, doors, etc., have been following the business for about thirty years. They removed to their present location about ten years ago. They employ 6 hands.

McQuillan & Pooler, proprietors of the Island Planing Mill, established the business in 1901. Their mill was built by L. W. Weston the following year. They employ twelve men, and are contractors and builders, as well as lumber manufacturers.

NOLIN MANUFACTURING COMPANY

This business has been in operation since 1877 when it was established by G. & M. Nolin. In 1898 the company was incorporated as the Nolin Manufacturing Co. The product of this manufactory is scythes, hay-knives and grass-hooks. Its sales are made through a New York commission house. The annual output of the mill at the present time is about 500 dozens of scythes, 100 dozens of hay-knives, and 3000 dozens of grass-hooks of different styles. 15 to 20 men are employed.

HACKETT & WITHAM

This concern, formerly the Island Machine Co., is an old established business. They manufacture saw-mill machinery, doing about $1000 worth of business monthly. The business is steadily increasing. Eight men are regularly employed.

MINOR INDUSTRIES

The Skowhegan Casket Co. was founded by J. Smith Nutting and has grown to good proportions. The manufacturing plant is located on the second and third floors of a wood working plant at the end of the bridge on Bloomfield side. Mr. Nutting took the industry over a decade ago and has steadily built it up to its present prosperous condition. He supplies a large number of casket dealers, and his output is such that it steadily adds to his business through its high quality of workmanship.

M. J. Allen, wood turning mill, is located in the same mill. This concern manufactures meat blocks and picker sticks, besides several other useful articles. The business is prosperous and progressive.

Another wood turning establishment, located in the basement of the same building, is W. R. Trask's plant for manufacturing milk can stoppers.

PACKING HOUSES

There are two packing houses located in the village at the present time. The plant now operated by the Portland Packing Co., was established by John Winslow, who erected the building located on Spring St. At this shop only succotash is canned, from 400,000 to 500,000 quart cans being put up yearly. About 200 acres of corn is required for this amount, thus giving to the farming population a ready market for a staple crop.

The other packing house is that of Pierce & Beals, on the Russell road. This is a newly established concern.

FLOUR AND GRIST MILLS

There are two grist mills, one situated on the Island, the other near the railroad station. Steward Bros. mill on the Island, has been in operation since it was established in 1873 by J. W. Steward. The building was enlarged by the present owners in 1897. The mill uses the same power as that employed by Joseph Weston, when he operated a grist mill here during the early part of the century. Three men are employed about the mill. The company consists of F. R. and J. W. Steward, who are also proprietors of a saw mill in the town of Cornville, seven miles away, and are extensive dealers in lumber and farm machinery.

The grist mill, located near the railroad station is owned and operated by D. A. & W. E. Porter, who purchased the plant in March, 1899 of Brown and Ward. They use electricity for power. Both of these mills grind by roller process, and are well fitted to do their special line of work.

SKOWHEGAN JERSEY CREAMERY

The Skowhegan Jersey Creamery Co. has one of the most successful creameries in the state. This was established in the year 1884, and has had a continual increase of business. They manufacture and ship both butter and cream, and both these products have acquired an enviable reputation for their superior qualities. There are about 230 farmers who dispose of their milk here regularly. Geo. B. Wing is president: E. E. Harris, superintendent.

CHAPTER VI

MILITARY

As the town of Canaan was not settled until about the time of the Revolution, she sent but few soldiers into the American army. Several who fought in the line afterwards settled in this town, and they became leading citizens. Of this number we can mention Timothy Pollard, Benj. Patten, Thos. Robinson, Daniel Parkman, Jacob Doyen, Noah Burrill, Robert Hood, Benj. Libbey, Calvin Russell, William Youling, (or Yeuland), Willard Sears, Butler Lombard, Jonathan Davis, John Emery, Amos Baker. Humphrey Burrill, Ebenezer Dean, John Merrick, Amasa Steward, Solomon Farland, Daniel Page, and Reuben Wyman. Most of these served in the New Hampshire or Massachusetts armies.

Although so far isolated from the principal seat of war, the community was visited by Arnold's army.

In the fall of 1775, Gen. Benedict Arnold's forces of about 1200 men passed up the river in bateaux on the famous expedition against Quebec, and Joseph Weston volunteered to aid them in poling their boats from his place to Skowhegan Island and around the falls. They landed on a little sandy beach at the foot of the island, and coming up a natural pathway where the ledge was cleft, camped for a day or two, probably in a small clearing made by the Indians, while the bateaux were safely carried by the falls and landed in the smooth waters above.

From Skowhegan Island the forces proceeded to Norridgewock Falls in Madison, where they camped five or six days, while a road was cut around the falls on the Anson side, when their boats were hauled by. The road then cut through has never been allowed to grow up, being still used as an approach to the river.

Joseph Weston probably went as far as Norridgewock Falls. From the hardship and exposure of the trip he took cold, and returned home sick. He died the 16th of October following, being but 43 years old, and leaving nine children to the care of his widow.

Eleazer Parker was in the French war and Revolution.

He died at the age of about 100 years.

A company of Light Infantry was formed in Canaan about 1809, David Kidder, Esq., captain. This, and a company of artillery formed at Norridgewock about the same time, were the first to be formed as far north as Somerset County. The following is a copy of the first order for a muster in Canaan.

“Rigemanteal orders for the forth Rigement, in the County of Lincoln. in the Furst Brigade.

Sir, you are Required to muster the Company under your Command as Sun as Posabley you Can for the Purpes of makeing a Return of thare Equipements and also for the Purpes of makeing tham Radey and prepared for a Regiman-tal muster which is to be on thursday the 2th Day of october Naxt at Fort Halifax in the town of Winslow at teen oClock in the fore fore Noon on said Day, at which time and Place you will not fail to appear with your offeres and Compney, as wall as thay Posabley Can be aq’upt for the Purpose.

I also sand you a Coppe of Return of the Equipements of your Compney “Ezekiel Pattee Cole.”

In the war of 1812 a company was formed, ready to take up arms if necessary, but it was not until the war was nearly over that they were called out. It was feared that an attack would be made upon Castine and Bangor. The company marched under orders to Waterville and camped for a few days. They did not go further, however, and soon returned to their homes without having seen active service.

CIVIL WAR

The town of Skowhegan is justly proud of the record made by her sons in the Wars engaged in by the United States. No town can produce a more notable record than hers in the war of the Rebellion. It is useless for the writer of these lines to attempt to add lustre to their fame, and it is also needless to attempt to recite any of the innumerable deeds of bravery performed by them, because their fame is secure, and their bravery is known and appreciated by a gratified community. No better tribute in this account of this side of Skowhegan's history can be paid to the soldier, than by inscribing his name upon the printed page in the full sight of the generations which follow and do him reverence.

In the following appear the names of the soldiers and sailors of Skowhegan in the Civil War: Abram H. Adams, Alvin B. Adams, Chas. B. Adams, Winfield S. Adams, Joseph W. Adderton, Alfred Allen, Aratus Ames, Edgar D. Ames, Joseph P. Austin, Joshua Ayer, Chas. H. Baker, Chas. R. Barbeau, Chas. J. Barbeau, Geo. A. Barnard, Ozias E. Bartlett, Thomas Barwise, John B. The following is a list of the young men of Skowhegan who enlisted and were mustered into service in the Spanish War. First Regiment: George C. Bray, Perly M. Devoll, Ray A. Pierce; First Batalion, Heavy Artillery: Harry Albee, Richard H. Collins, Woodman R. Dawes, Tracy P. Forsythe, Ralph H. Foss, Edward W. Foster, Atwood B. Gibbs, Arthur H. Given, Artificer: Howard B. Hilton, Archie F. Jewett, Walter E. Joy, Selden A. Knight, Wallace B. McPheters, 1st Lieut.; Eddie Pomlow, C. A. Rogers, Ser.; Clair H. Savage, F. A. Sedgley, Henry D. Smith, Edward Spear, 2nd Lieut.; Henry Tatro, Arthur G. Towle, Gilmore C. Trott, Deforest A. Yeaton, Sar.

GRAND ARMY POST

Russell Post, No. 86, was named for the first man killed of the volunteers of Skowhegan. The membership of this Post is about 100. J. P. Thompson is the present commander, and Ed. Walker, adjutant. Meetings are regularly held the first and third Fridays of each month in the Grand Army Hall.

CHAPTER VII

CHURCHES—CHRISTIAN SOCIETY

The church history of the town of Skowhegan resolves itself into a history of the different denominations which have been organized within its limits. We shall attempt to trace, more or less fully, the organization and growth of these denominations from their earliest date.

We find that the first church to be organized in the limits of the town of Milburn, was the Christian Church, organized at Dudley's Corner, about 1818, through the labors of Rev. Joseph Merrill. Mr. Merrill began preaching within the limits of the town some seven years prior to that date. A small church was organized at Haskell's Corner in 1830. Another was organized at the village on June 5, 1840. Still another society was formed about 1840, in the Pooler neighborhood. Mr. Merrill was the prime mover in nearly all these movements, and their success was in a large degree due to his activity. Other preachers who were engaged a whole or a part of the time in this town in the early years, were Revs. Henry Frost, Mark Shepard, Benjamin P. Reed, Samuel Young and Eleazar Hamlin. Beginning with 1838, the pastors so far as we are able to give them have been: Rev. Samuel Bickford, 1838; Rev. Milton Chalmers, 1843; Rev. Jos. Merrill, 1846; vacant till 1849; John B. Weston, 1849.

On April 5, 1849, a legal society was formed. At that time the combined membership of the four churches of this order was about 200. As stated in the account of the Congregational church, this society, together with the Congregational society erected a fine church edifice in 1847 and '48. The denomination was then in a very flourishing condition, but later became weakened, and is now extinct.

METHODIST SOCIETY.

The first Methodist Society organized in the town of Skowhegan was organized in 1827, by Rev. Ezekiel Robinson, having, we are told, but four members, all men. The first pastor was Rev. Benjamin Jones. Another writer has stated that the first pastor was Henry True, and his circuit included the church at Norridgewock. From 1828, the church has been regularly supplied and the society has been prosperous. The Annual Conference was held in this town in 1841, Bishop Hedding presiding. In 1854, the Annual Conference was held here, during the pastorate of Rev. Joseph Jenne, again in 1873, under the pastorate of Rev. A. R. Sylvester, and still again in 1894, Bishop H. C. Foss, presiding.

The first meeting house of this society was erected by Mr. Jas. Dinsmore, a wealthy layman of this church, who assumed all the expense of the same, selling pews to all who desired to or could buy them. This building was sold to the Catholics, and afterward destroyed by fire.

In 1865, the society decided to erect a more commodious house and chose Mr. Henry Plummer and Col. Isaac Dyer the building committee. The church was dedicated in 1868, during the pastorate of Chas. F. Allen, D. D.

In 1891, the church was renovated in the interior, at an expense of about $2,000. The parsonage was built in 1883, during the pastorate of L. L. Bean.

The following is a list of the pastors since the organization of the church:

Revs. Benj. Jones; Henry True, 1828-'29; F. Drew, 1829-'30; Greenleaf Greely, 1830-'31; Ezekiel Robinson, 1831-'32; Benj. Follett, 1832-'33; S. P. Blake, 1833-'34, 35-'36; Asa Heath, 1834-'35; Edward Hotchkiss, 1836-'37; D. Hutchinson, 1837-'38; P. P. Morrill, 1838-'40; A. Sanderson, 1840-'41; C. P. Bragdon, 1841-'42; H. Butler, 1842-'43; C. Scammon, 1843-'45; Obadiah Huse, 1845-'46; A. F. Barnard, 1846-'48; C. C. Cone, 1848-'49. Following this date we are unable to give the successive appointments. The following have had the charge of the church: Revs. D. B. Randall, Chas. Nason, A. R. Sylvester, Chas. Munger, Chas. Allen, Parker Jaques, Rev. Mr. Baldwin, Sylvester Hooper, J. M. Frost, L. H. Bean, who built the parsonage which stands beside the church. Since Mr. Bean, the successive pastors have been: Revs. D. B. Holt, E. L. House, Mellen Howard, Fred Morgan, Mellen Howard, B. C. Wentworth, E. T. Adams and Daniel Onstott, who was appointed to this charge in 1900.

. UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

A society of the Universalist denomination was organized by the people of Skowhegan and Bloomfield who were inclined to that faith, in 1836. No regular minister was settled, however, until 1842. Previous to this date, Revs. Seth Stetson, Darius Forbes, Jacob K. Fulmer and other preachers filled the pulpit. In 1842, Rev. John A. Henry re-organized the society, and took pastoral charge of the church. He remained until December, 1846, when he removed to Ludlow, Vt., intending to return, but died one year from that date. Rev. John W. Hanson, the historian, was the next settled pastor, coming in 1849. Rev. Mr. Hanson was sent a delegate to the first Peace Conference, and afterwards went to the church in Gardiner. Rev. W. A. P. Dillingham was his successor, living, as did Mr. Hanson, in Norridgewock. Following Mr. Dillingham there were no regular services until 1868, when Rev. Geo. W. Bicknell came to the charge. The church was organized in 1872, by Rev. W. W. Nutting, who was followed as pastor by Rev. H. C. Munson, in the fall of 1881. Previous to his arrival, on Aug. 27, 1881, the parish had been reorganized, and the church erected. The church was dedicated Sept. 13, 1883, Rev. E. A. Hoyt being then pastor. On April 12, 1884, the church was again reorganized. Following Rev. Mr. Hoyt the pastors have been Revs. J. H. Little, Miss Lorenza Haynes, S. P. Smith, who died in 1891, after one year's service; Miss Haynes again had charge of the church for a short time. Rev. C. F. McIntyre came in 1891; Rev. Geo. E. Leighton, 1895; Rev. H. C. Markley, 1899; and Rev. D. A. Ball, 1903. The church now has a membership of about 30, having become greatly reduced by the death or removal of many of its earlier supporters.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The Congregational Church of Skowhegan is an outgrowth of the first religious work of a Protestant character attempted in Somerset County, and is connected directly with that work. Rev. Ezekiel Emerson was the first Protestant preacher. This was in 1777, and until 1783 he continued his labors in what was at that time Canaan, and Norridgewock.

Dr. Whittaker was his successor in 1784, and the next year he, with twenty-two others, founded the first church. During his pastorate the first church building was erected. For the first five years of its existence this church was under the jurisdiction of the Salem Presbytery, not assuming full Congregational power until January, 1790. Dr. Whittaker's connection with the church was severed the same year, "by request." From 1793 to 1801 Jonathan Calef ministered to this people, with doubtful success. For the next eight years there was no regular preaching; Revs. Jonathan Powers, Marcy and Jotham Sewall being occasional supplies. In 1809 Rev. John Cayford became pastor. He remained three years, and on December 29, 1812, was dismissed. Nearly two years later, June 15, 1814, Rev. Fifield Holt began his work here. A man of earnest piety, he was greatly beloved by his people. In 1816 he founded the first Sunday school in the county; only thirty-six years later than the first Sunday school in the world. Mr. Holt remained with this people until his death, which occurred November 7, 1830. He is buried in the South Side cemetery. Before the commencement of his ministry, the church had been reorganized; and, in 1835, the second church building was erected. Rev. George Hathaway succeeded Mr. Holt in 1833. The new church building, like the first, was situated on the Bloomfield side of the river. During Mr. Hathaway's pastorate, in 1840, twelve members were dismissed and founded the Congregational Church of Skowhegan. They continued to worship with Mr. Hathaway's people until 1845 or 1846, when they commenced to hold independent services. They united with the Christian Church in the building of the brick church on High street, completed in 1848. The first pastor was Rev. Alpha Morton, followed the next year by Rev. Asa Loring. Rev. Leonard Harris was the next pastor, he preaching in the hall over the present Somerset Reporter office. Rev. Temple Cutler came next, in 1859. Mr. Hathaway of the Bloomfield church received a call from Grinnell, Iowa, in 1860, which he accepted.

The same year the Bloomfield and Skowhegan churches united under Mr. Cutler's leadership, and in February, 1861, he was installed pastor of the united churches. The next year the present church building was completed. He was held in high esteem by his people. In 1868 he terminated his labors with this church, and Rev. F. E. Sturgis took up the work, and remained one year. Ill health drove him from his field of service. This year, 1870, brought Rev. Webster Woodbury to the church.

His pastorate was one that added much to the strength of the church. In 1876 a precious time of revival occurred in the church, and sixty-one were added to the church membership. About this time the chapel was built and new pulpit furniture bought. Rev. Mr. Woodbury resigned in 1881, and the following year Rev. A. J. Rackliff was installed. He remained until 1892. A strong, forceful preacher, a faithful friend and pastor, he left a church united in affectionate regard for him. The next January, 1893, the church extended a call to R. B. Matthews, then a senior in Bangor Theological Seminary, which he accepted. He was ordained pastor on June 12, 1893. At the end of one year of service he resigned, and for some time the church was without a pastor. In January, 1895, a call was extended to H. W. Kimball, a senior in Andover Theological Seminary, and in July of the same year he was ordained pastor of the church.

Mr. Kimball's pastorate was an active and useful one. Much efficient work was done in training the young, and a large number were added to the church, especially following revival services in 1902. He closed his labors in January, 1904, and was succeeded in May of the same year by Rev. B. B. Merrill, formerly of Brewer.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Quite a number of the people of Canaan were dissatisfied with the preaching of the Congregationalists, and as early as 1796, invitations were extended to Elders Asa Wilbur and Jabez Lewis, of Sidney, to visit the people and preach the Baptist doctrine. A revival followed, and those who were converted united with the Baptist church in Clinton. Reproach, ridicule and persecution was the lot of these early Baptists, but they multiplied and on October 20th, 1803, a church was organized with fifteen members at the house of Dea. Daniel Smith. The church was organized as the First Baptist Church of Canaan. In 1806, Rev. Henry Kendall became pastor for a portion of the time, and his labors were rewarded by the spread of an extensive revival. About fifty new members united with the church. Mr. Kendall was succeeded in 1809 by Rev. John Wagg. He remained until 1812, when a meeting house was erected and dedicated, costing \$3000. This house stood very near where Mr. E. B. Curtis' house now stands on West Front street. Portions of the foundations may yet be traced. Some of the lumber for this early meeting house was hauled from Newport by ox-teams as none could be found nearer that was sufficiently seasoned. This church was presided over from 1812 to 1814 by Rev. Joshua Brooks. He was followed by Revs. J. Steward, Robert Coburn and Francis Powers up to 1822. In 1824, it was voted to divide the interest on the established ministerial fund, between the Congregationalists and the Baptists "according to their number." The Baptists this year received \$43.25. It is recorded, Feb. 19, 1824, that for the consideration of \$53, Seth Currier deeded to the Bloomfield Baptist Society the church lot $\frac{1}{2}$ of $\frac{1}{4}$ of an acre, and a triangular piece between the two roads, 5 square rods, more or less. To this lot the meeting house was moved during the winter, nearly all the oxen in the town being employed in the task. Through the winter the services of Rev. Samuel Dinsmore were employed. From 1825 to 1829 the pulpit was supplied from Waterville College. For the three years following, Rev. Noah Hooper was the regular preacher. Rev. Arthur Drinkwater came to the church in 1836, and a revival followed.

Nov. 11, 1841, the meeting house was burned. The following year Rev. Mr. Drinkwater resigned, and for a period of a year or more the church was without a pastor. Rev. Chas. Miller became the next pastor. The new church, now finished, was a substantial and well equipped building for the time, costing $5000. Rev. Mr. Miller remained with the church until 1847, when he resigned to go to Farmington. He later returned to this town where he spent his last years, and together with his beloved wife, is gratefully remembered for his Christian character and deeds. In 1848, Rev. N. Milton Wood was ordained pastor. The church, under his charge, was greatly strengthened and revived, the membership reaching nearly 200. The cause of Missions seems to have been first taken up in this church during this time, and considerable sums were given. Reverend Mr. Wood resigned in 1851. From that time to 1854 the pulpit was again filled by supplies, mostly from Waterville, and many times later, when the church was without a regular pastor, have supplies filled the pulpit. The following is a list of the men who have served as regular pastors, with the dates connected with their service. Prof Brooks, of Waterville College, who became pastor in Jan., 1854, remained a short time; Rev. A. B. Clark, was ordained Sept. 1855, remained until April, 1859, being very successful; Rev. Geo. Bullen, 1860; Rev. N. J. Wheeler, 1861-1869; Rev. Hosea Pierce, 1870-1872; Rev. B. F. Shaw, 1872-1873; Rev. W. O. Ayer, 1874-1883; Rev. C. M. G. Harwood, 1884-1889; Rev. C. A. Whitcomb, 1890-1892; Rev. I. B. Mower, 1892-1893; Rev. Levi Copeland, 1894-1896; Rev. A. N. Darry, 1896-1898; Rev. Henry F. Huse, the present pastor was ordained June 29, 1899.

During the last fifty years the experience of this church, like so many others, has been one of alternate success and failure. We should especially mention that in 1865 Misses Sarah White, Laura Cayford and Mary Howe went to Richmond, Va., as missionaries; Cromwell Barnard's bequest of $500 to the church as a permanent fund, in 1873; and in 1885 the bequest of $18,000 for the same reason by Gov. A. Coburn. He had ever been a liberal supporter of this church, although not a member.

During Rev. Mr. Harwood's pastorate, fifty members were dismissed from this church, and the Bethany Church organized on the north side of the river.

The church is now prosperous and united, with a membership of about 135. It supports a Sunday school of over a hundred members, with a Home Department and Cradle Roll.

The fiftieth, and the seventy-fifth anniversaries of the organization of this church were celebrated at their respective times, but the one-hundredth anniversary, observed Oct. 27, 1903, was perhaps, the most eventful day in the history of the church. An extensive and interesting programme was carried out, including the reading of a historical account of the church, by Mrs. E. W. Marble, from which we have taken the material for this account, with her permission.

BETHANY BAPTIST CHURCH

Was organized May 12, 1887, with 70 members, formerly members of the First Baptist Church of Skowhegan.

Rev. Charles V. Hanson, then residing in Damariscotta, preached the first sermon to the church after its organization and supplied the pulpit until he was called to its pastorate November 6, 1887.

January 5, 1888, a gift of $1000 was received from Mr. John Weston, the income only to be used toward the current expenses of the church.

On September 1st, 1888, a lot for a church edifice was purchased and a building committee of five, with R. L. Mitchell, chairman, was elected. A modern, commodious edifice was erected at an expense of about $20,000, and dedicated free of debt, February 19th, 1890, with a sermon by Dr. A. W. Small, president of Colby College.

On May 30, 1898, Pastor Hanson was obliged to resign because of serious illness.

February, 1899, a call was extended to Rev. Dr. William H. Spencer, of Waterville, and he became pastor March 5th of that year.

November 11th, 1899, Rev. Dr. Hanson, the former beloved pastor, died. His burial was at Portland and on November 19th, a memorial service was held in Bethany Church, Pastor Spencer making the principal address. Judge

E. F. Davenport spoke for the citizens of the town. Miss Louise H. Coburn read a poem written for the occasion.

Dr. Spencer resigned the pastorate which had been a very successful one, in February, 1904, to take effect in April, and on August 19th, 1904, a call was extended to Rev. George Merriam, which was accepted and he began his pastorate in October.

Two hundred and seven members have been enrolled during the existence of the church to the present time, October 1904. Pews are free and Bethany claims to be a home church to all who will come. Its young people have a prosperous C. E. Society, also a Junior C. E. Society. The pastor's residence is corner of Madison Ave. and Winter street.—This account was furnished by Mr. J. O. Smith, editor of the Somerset Reporter.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH

There was a society, called The Second Baptist Church of Bloomfield, organized Oct. 4, 1837, in the southern part of the town. Rev. E. Packard preached here, beginning two years previous to the forming of this church, and remained as pastor from 1838-'42. The society has now become extinct.

ADVENTS

There is no church of this denomination in the town. Rev. P. B. Osburn came to the town last spring and began religious services, the result of which was the establishing of a Sabbath School. Services are frequently held in the Grand Army Hall. There are about fifteen of this faith in the town.

SALVATION ARMY.

The Salvation Army work was opened in Skowhegan by Capt. and Mrs. Stone, April 5th, 1902, and was successfully carried on by them till Jan. 11th, 1903, when Capt. and Mrs. Parkins took charge. They carried the work on till June 19th, 1903, when they were succeeded by Capt. and Mrs. Owen, and they were in charge till April 27th, 1904, when Capt. and Mrs. Riley took command and they are at present in charge of the work. The work has been very successful since it was opened. Many non-churchgoing people have been reached and saved from lives of sin and made into good citizens. The present membership is about fifteen.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

A Christian Science Society was organized in Skowhegan, Aug., 1898, and Sept. 4, 1898, public Christian Science services were opened in G. A. R. Hall and regularly held in that place until Apr. 2, 1899, when more convenient rooms were secured at 29 Water street, where the services were continued until Feb. 17, 1901. Christian Science Hall, 29 Water street was then fitted and furnished for the purpose of public Christian Science services, where they are held at the present date.

The Society was reorganized in November, 1903, and August 29, 1904, the First Church of Christ Scientist was duly organized and incorporated according to the laws of the State of Maine. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Rose E. Estes; Clerk, Mrs. Eva D. H. Baker; Treasurer, Mr. Harrison Baker. The church is steadily progressing in strength and is in a prosperous condition. Mrs. Baker is first reader. Besides the services at the hall a Wednesday evening service is held at her residence, 15 Elm street, at the reading room.

CHAPTER VIII

EDUCATIONAL ACCOUNT—SCHOOLS OF OLD CANAAN

Superstition, credulity and curiosity are not admirable qualities; but they are only corrupted forms of primeval virtues. No matter how degraded the race, these remain to prove that man was intended to question the natural, and to take on trust that which is called supernatural. As strong as the desire for food, shelter, rest, or love, is the impulse toward learning and worship. So before Canaan was very old, she began to plan for a "settled means of grace," a Meeting house and schools for the children. It is interesting to note the building, here and there, of the "little red schoolhouses," the Alma Maters of the sons and daughters of New England.

In 1790 thirty pounds was raised for the support of schools, 40 pounds the following year, and 30 again in 1781. This money was apportioned by the selectmen as they thought proper, to be expended by each class, (later called district), as it thought proper; also each person had the privilege of sending his children to the school he thought proper. In 1796 the present system of currency was made the basis of town appropriations, and $150 was raised for building and repairing schoolhouses.

Where these early schoolhouses were located is not now easy to determine, but from the men and women whose memory went back nearly to this time we find it recorded that one was located near Skowhegan Falls, and one between Joseph and Samuel Weston's, stood in the vicinity of Seth Wyman's (?) The Weston schoolhouse was called the Center schoolhouse.

When the history of the districts begins to emerge from the mists of antiquity, we find the town divided into six classes, of which Levi Powers, Eli Weston, Isaac Russell, Lieut. Isaac Smith, William Steward, and Jonathan Robbins were chosen heads. Levi Powers lived on the river road between four and five miles below the village, on the old Swan place, later the home of Warren Foss. Eli Weston lived where Joseph Weston first settled on the farm which was the home of the late Willis Currier. Isaac Russell lived as near as could be determined on the south side road to Norridge-wock, on the farm next west of John Weston's. Lieut. Isaac Smith lived on the Leighton farm. William Steward settled just above Seth Wyman's, on the Gould place. Jonathan Robbins we are unable to locate, but he was in the class to which Mr. Phineas Steward, Jr., belonged, as he was once chosen to fill Mr. Robbins' place as head of the class. Phineas Steward, Jr., lived on the Samuel Bicknell farm, four or five miles down the middle road.

The classes were changed as the needs of the settlers required, and new districts, as they were afterwards called, were added from time to time.

Later the heads of the different classes were formed into a school committee. It may be of interest to give the names of some of those who filled the office of "Class Master" in the different classes before the first division of the old town of Canaan in 1814.

The class by the meeting house was served by Eli Weston, Salmon White, Peter Heywood, Jr., Samuel Weston, Joseph Weston, and Benj. Shepherd. The Wheeler class by Daniel Wheeler, Wm. Carson, Amos Baker, Joseph Shepherd, Thaddeus Prentiss, and Geo. Poole. The Emery class by Samuel Emery, Joseph Emery, James Bigelow, Jr., Eleazer Coburn, Eleazer Coburn, Jr., George Noyes, and John Kimball. The Wyman class by William Steward, Samuel Steward, Seth Wyman, Jonathan Steward, Daniel Snow, and Pickard Jewett. The East class by Daniel Herring, Daniel Herring, Jr., Calvin Russell, Aaron Colman, Daniel Homestead, Christopher Webb, and Perley Rogers. The names of Benj. Page, Joseph Ireland and Joseph Pooler, as heads of a class or classes on the east side of the river after division of that part of the town into several classes, are familiar. They were men who lived in the vicinity of Haskell's Corner. Most of the names of the men in the eastern districts are not so easily recognized by the people of Skowhegan, because they are names belonging to modern Canaan.

Bryce McLellan was often head of the Upper Class, and John Weston, James Bigelow, Solomon Steward, Jr., Edward Hartwell, Judah McLellan, Josiah Locke, and Seth Currier served it at different times in that capacity.

A general committee was first chosen to visit schools in 1809. Its members were Seth Currier, Esq., James Bowen, and Joseph Shepherd.

So originated the schools of Skowhegan, in the classes of old Canaan. We hold a precious legacy from the past, and every scholar who graduates with honor from the High school, honors the memory of those men whose names we have given.—Written by LILLIAN CLAYTON SMITH.

Mrs. White, wife of Dea. John White, opened the first school in town in 1777. She was a successful teacher. The next year, Robert Hood was the teacher, followed some time after, by Polly Emerson and William Whittaker, children of the early ministers. In 1780, Samuel Weston had a school for the married men, which fact shows the unsatisfied desire these men had for education. Isaiah Wood began to teach in 1796 and made the first innovation on the old regime. Besides his classes in the Psalter and Dilworth's spelling book, he introduced a class in the newspaper which became very popular.

BLOOMFIELD ACADEMY

The honored institution known as Bloomfield Academy, was incorporated as Canaan Academy by the General Court of Massachusetts on Feb. 17, 1807. The first board of directors consisted of the following: Judah McLellan, Seth Currier, Benj. Shepherd, Josiah Locke, Eli Weston, John Weston and Solomon Steward, of Canaan; Rev. John Lawrence of Cornville; Rev. Joshua Cushman, of Winslow; Reuben Kidder, of Waterville; John G. Neil and Daniel Steward, of Norridgewock. This board first met on June 19th, 1812, and voted "to build an Academy building, 24 by 36 and 12 feet posts." The name was changed to Bloomfield Academy in 1817, and soon after, the institution received a grant of land to the extent of half a township. This land was located in the plantation of Coplin in the county of Franklin, and the provision upon which the grant was made was that the grantees should settle on the land at least five settlers, and that these settlers should clear not less than five acres each. The land was not settled for upwards of half a century after the date of the grant. It was explored by a resident of Bloomfield, who reported it to be unfit for cultivation, and of but little value. It was sold to Messrs. Andrew Morse, Jedediah Hayden and Nath. Blackwell, and proved afterwards to be one of the best timbered townships in the region.

The first building alluded to above was erected by subscription on the part of the residents of the town. The date was 1814. The structure was very plain, was abandoned about 1840, and after that the school was removed from place to place.

In 1815 the trustees of the Academy made proposals to the trustees of the Maine Literary and Theological Institution (now Colby College) to locate that institution here, and voted to turn over to them the Academy building and its funds, provided that they locate in this town, and it looked at one time that the thing was settled, but a more tempting offer was made by Waterville and it was located there. It would seem from the records, that the subscriptions of the inhabitants for the building amounted to a larger sum than the cost of the building, as immediately after the sale of the half township of land for $2,400, it was voted that there be a permanent fund of three thousand four hundred dollars, the principal of which should be made intact.

The first term of the Academy was held in 1814, under the tuition of the Rev. James Hall, a native of Scotland and a graduate of Edinburg University. The attendance numbered thirteen students. The catalog of 1820 shows a list of 77 students. Mr. Hall was a successful teacher, and though somewhat rough in manner, was of genial disposition. His discipline was somewhat lax, but he was reputed to be one of the best mathematicians in the State. He remained preceptor till 1828, when he removed to Anson and taught the Academy there for several years before his death. He was succeeded by Weston B. Adams, who remained till 1833, when he resigned to become a preacher. Mr. Adams was a successful instructor and strict disciplinarian. His successor was Francis A. Vose, who remained till 1838. Mr. Vose was succeeded by Daniel Dole, afterward Missionary to the Sandwich Islands, and father of Sanford B. Dole, who has had a prominent part in developing that region and became President of the Republic when it was formed, and later, Governor, when the Islands were admitted to the United States as a territory.

Since that time the records of the trustees are generally silent as to the names of the teachers.

Too much credit cannot be given to the founders of the Academy for their efforts in establishing this institution when it will be remembered that the town was comparatively small and that the building was erected and nearly or quite one thousand dollars contributed for the permanent fund, and that this was done during the War of 1812, when money was as scarce and hard to get as at any time during the history of the country. But they had the satisfaction of seeing the institution firmly established and become second to none in the State. Students from almost all parts of the State attended. From 1821 to 1826 there were eleven students from the town of Waldoboro, in Lincoln County.

SKOWHEGAN HIGH SCHOOL

Skowhegan is justly proud of her public schools. The school policy of the town has always been liberal, and the school funds of the town ably administered. Especially has this been true of the high school appropriation. To maintain a thoroughly efficient corps of teachers, with an able and enthusiastic principal at their head, a well-balanced curriculum, and an adequate equipment, has been the constant aim of the school committee. As a result, the high standing of the school is recognized wherever its influence has been felt.

Skowhegan High has been acquiring of late years an enviable record and reputation as a college preparatory school, and to this end the efforts of its principals have been largely directed. The recent admission of the school to the approved list of the New England College Entrance Certificate Board is a gratifying indication of the recognition of its excellence as a preparatory school. Its certificate now admits to any college in New England, with the exception of Harvard, Yale, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Forty-three graduates of the school are now attending higher institutions of learning.

Three years ago the school adopted the "point system" of ranking, requiring a definite amount of work, rather than a definite amount of time, before a pupil can be graduated, thus placing itself in line with the more advanced schools of the day.

The number of scholars now enrolled is 121, divided as follows: Seniors, 27; Juniors, 32; Sophomores, 26; Freshmen, 36. The largest enrollment in the history of the school was 131, in the year 1902-3.

An excellent physical and chemical laboratory has been installed in the third story of the building, with a fine working equipment and every facility for such experimental work as the courses require.

Four years ago a commercial course, comprising book-keeping, typewriting, stenography, and commercial law, was added to the curriculum for the benefit of those desiring special preparation in these courses.

The library of the school is meagre, and constitutes the one department of the school which may be called inadequate to the demands of the school work. The easy access to the Skowhegan Public Library compensates in a measure for the deficiency.

The history of the school dates back to 1868. In that year the agitation for a graded school of the higher grade led to the drafting of a course of study by John F. Moody and Marthy N. Hathaway, the first instructors of the school. This was submitted to a committee of the town, and accepted. The first sessions of the school were held in the old Academy building on Baptist Hill, the school being merged with Bloomfield Academy. Since that date the institution has been under the joint control of the Superintending School Committee of Skowhegan and the trustees of Bloomfield Academy, and has been known as Skowhegan High School and Bloomfield Academy.

The school continued under the principalship of Mr. Moody, with the exception of one or two terms under instructors Atkins and Grant, until 1871, when O. L. Billings succeeded to the principalship. It was in that year that the present school building on Skowhegan Island was completed and the school moved into its present quarters, which it has since occupied.

Succeeding principals and the period of their principalship have been as follows:

The present teaching staff is as follows:

Principal, DeForest H. Perkins, University of Maine; Sub-Master, William L. Waldron, Colby; First Assistant, Eunice L. Bodwell, Radcliffe; Second Assistant, Edwin A. Parker, University of Maine; Third Assistant, Louise Barker, Bates.—Contributed by FRED F. LAWRENCE, Esq.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

This account was received too late to be inserted under chapter on churches.

The Catholic parish in Skowhegan is among the most influential in the State. Though the society is comparatively youthful, dating back no farther than 1875, it has become, largely through the indefatigable efforts of its present rector, Adolphe O. Lacroix, a parish of wide influence and power, having a membership placed at 1500, and controlling property valued at $65,000.

The parish originated in the mission work of Rev. Fr. Halde of Waterville, who organized a society in Skowhegan, but never resided here. Meetings were first held in the old Methodist Church, which was situated on the site now occupied by St. Mary's. That structure was destroyed by fire on March 21, 1880, and the present edifice was built the following summer, at a cost of from $8,000 to $10,000.

The work of Father Halde was continued by Rev. Fr. Charland of Waterville, who served as missionary priest to the parish until 1881, when the first resident rector, Rev. Fr. E. Genereux, came to take charge of the parish. It was during his pastorship that the church was rebuilt. In 1884 the property now used as a parsonage, on the east of the church, was purchased of its owner, Robert S. Paine, the purchase price being $1800. Previous to that time the building had been rented.

Father Genereux was succeeded in 1888 by Rev. H. H. Hamaker, who remained only ten months, giving place on August 23, 1889, to Rev. Adolphe O. Lacroix, the present rector, who came here from Three Rivers, Canada.

Since Father Lacroix took control of the affairs of the parish, its progress has been little short of phenomenal. Soon after his arrival important changes and improvements were made in the parsonage, and later the church was extensively improved, the galleries and side-vestry being added. The present burial property was purchased in 1897.

The most significant addition to the church property was the purchase of the Burrill property, adjoining the parsonage lot on the east, for use as a convent, and the construction of the new parochial school building on the bank of the river. This lot was conveyed to the church by the heirs of Hiram Burrill on the 18th of September, 1897. The building, which had hitherto been used as a dwelling house, but which was of unusually large proportions, was entirely remodelled and fitted up for a Sisters' Chapel. In 1898 a group of nuns of the Franciscan Order from Three Rivers, Canada, came here and took charge of the convent. The parochial school was established at this time, and was held in this building until the completion of the present splendid structure in 1902. This building, which is one of the finest pieces of architecture in the town, is of brick, with stone foundation, and a mansard roof. Its dimensions are 43x72, and it contains twelve spacious school rooms, and a large hall for church entertainment purposes. It was first used in August, 1902.

In April, 1904, another important step was taken by the church in the purchase of the Weston and Parlin farms on the North side of the Kennebec River on the Norridge-wock road. This property was purchased of Benjamin F. Baker. The transfer was made to Mr. Joseph F. Pooler who has entire charge of the farm, but the society was the real purchaser, and the object was to secure additional property for the uses of the society. The large brick house on the property is used as an infirmary for the aged and infirm of the parish.

We have made effort to procure a cut of this church but have been unable to do so.

CHAPTER IX

PROFESSIONAL MEN

EARLY PHYSICIANS

SKOWHEGAN—Dr. Caldwell is reputed to be the first regular physician, but we are loth to accept this as a fact as he closed his practice as late as 1820, when he was succeeded by Dr. David H. Raymond, who took the former's place by exchange. From this time, the physicians down to about the middle of the century past, were the following, according to our best information.

Dr. Raymond, above, who lived here till his death, which occurred in 1840; Dr. William Snow, a student from Dr. Bowen's office came to this town and settled in 1848. He came into a good practice, using the homeopathic method.

Dr. Alvah Bacon came here from Scarboro about 1830, and later removed to Boston and to Biddeford.

Dr. James Brooks came here from Cumberland County about 1842, and is mentioned for his skill in surgery.

Dr. John Heard came to this town about 1848, and remained here only about six months, leaving with the respect of all for his character and attainments.

BLOOMFIELD—The first physician in that part of Skowhegan formerly known as the town of Bloomfield, was a clergyman who had a knowledge of medicine and made use of his skill to some extent while he stayed in town. He came in 1784, and remained for several years. This was Dr. Nat'l Whittaker.

The next physician was Dr. Zebulon Gilman, who practiced here a few years, but was settled in Norridgewock for the greater part of his life. He came here in 1786, and remained but a few years.

Dr. William Ward came here from Antrim about 179—, and settled near the old Ferry Way about the Falls. He is remembered as a very successful physician. A previous writer states that being a very intemperate man he was greatly handicapped in his profession.

Dr. James Butterfield first came to the town as a Baptist preacher. He left soon after, and returned again about 1790, for the practice of medicine. He was very successful, remaining in this town about five years. He then removed to Athens.

Dr. Joseph H. Shepherd came to Bloomfield about 1806.

He removed in a few years to Newport. Maine.

Dr. James Bowen, who had studied with Dr. Gallop, arrived in 1808 or '9. He was a very successful practitioner, and a man of much prominence in the town. He served in the Massachusetts Legislature repeatedly before the separation of the State.

Dr. Francis Caldwell came from Kennebec County to finish his reading with Dr. Bowen, about 1816; he practiced with his teacher, and later settled on the north side of the river.

Dr. Fisk was another of the early physicians whom we should mention. From this town he went to Bangor, where he became a druggist and practicing physician. He lost considerable property in the attack of the British on Bangor, when they made their raid up the Penobscot.

Dr. William McLellan came to town about 1836 and settled in the back part of the town.

Dr. Horace Stevens came in 1848, from Vermont.

During the last half century, a large number of men have located here for the practice of this profession. The list is too long to give in full. For a list of those now practicing see the business directory.

EARLY LAWYERS OF SKOWHEGAN.

The following lawyers comprise the practitioners of the town of Skowhegan down to about 1850.

David Kidder, 1811. He was County Attorney from 1811 till 1823; Member of the Maine Legislature, and of the United States House of Representatives during the eighteenth and nineteenth Congresses.

Judah McLellan, Esq., 1803, was born in Connecticut. He was County Attorney from 1824 to 1834, and Representative to the Massachusetts Legislature.

Hon. John Ruggles, 1815-16; removed to Thomaston, became Speaker of Maine House of Representatives, United States District Judge, and U. S. Senator from Maine.

Hon. Milford P. Norton, 1819-20, removed to Canaan, later to Waterville and Bangor, and returned to Canaan about 1836. Held the offices of Land Agent, member Maine House and Senate. Removed to Texas and became Judge of the Texas Superior Court.

Hon. Ebenezer Allen, 1836, held the office of County Attorney for several years, removed to Texas where he became Attorney General and Secretary of State.

Nathaniel Deering, 1822-38, removed to Portland, from whence he came to this town. He was a literary man of some note.

Horatio Bridge, 1828, remained about one year and became purser in the Navy.

Henry Dummer, 1830-31, removed West.

Hon. W. B. S. Moore, 1832, remained about six months, became Member Maine Legislature, Attorney General, and United States Senator by executive appointment.

James T. Leavitt, 1838—, became Judge Advocate in Militia, Member Maine Legislature, and County Attorney.

George F. Talbot settled for a few months in an office in this town. He was Free Soil candidate for Governor of the State in 1849.

Llewellyn Kidder, 1835—, became Clerk of Courts, 1847.

Alonzo and Stephen Coburn came here in 1847.

Henry A. Wyman began practice in Skowhegan in 1847.

ATTORNEYS OF SKOWHEGAN SINCE 1850.

James T. Leavitt, Hiram Knowlton, James Wright, David Kidder, Albert G. Emery, Daniel C. Robinson, William B. Brown, Steven Coburn, W. J. Knowlton, Benj. W. Norris, Llewellyn Kidder, Timothy B. Barrett, Joseph D. Brown, Stillman B. Tuttle, Milton Emery, Henry A. Wyman, William Folsom, James Bell, Samuel A. Bickford, Stanley Plummer, W. M. E. Brown, Edward P. Coffin.

LAWYERS NOW IN PRACTICE.

O. R. Bacheller, Judge of the Municipal Court, Lyman L. Walton, Edward N. Merrill, present Member of the Maine House, Ernest C. Butler, Harold J. Phillips, Edward F. Danforth, recent Judge of Probate, Forrest Goodwin, President of Maine Senate, Wm. T. Seekins, Clerk of Courts, George W. Gower, recent County Attorney, Chester H. Mills, Sylvester J. Walton, recent Member of Governor's Council, Samuel W. Gould, recent Democratic candidate for Governor of Maine, Amos K. Butler, Daniel Lewis, and Fred F. Lawrence.

CHAPTER X

FACTS OF INTEREST

VILLAGE CORPORATION

In the year of our Lord, eighteen hundred and fifty-two. An act to incorporate the Skowhegan and Bloomfield village Corporation. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in the Legislature assembled as follows:

Sec. I. The territory embraced within School district No. 1, in the town of Skowhegan, and School district No. 1, in the town of Bloomfield, in the County of Somerset, is hereby created a body politic and corporate with all the rights and privileges provided by the general Laws of the State relating to similar Corporations, by the name of the Skowhegan and Bloomfield Village Corporation.

Sec. II. Said Corporation is hereby authorized and vested with the power at any legal meeting called for the purpose, to raise money to defray the expenses of a night watch, of a police, and all other necessary regulations for the better security of property, and for the promotion of good order and quiet within its limits; for purchasing and keeping in repair engines and all other apparatus for the extinguishment of fires; for the construction of reservoirs and aquaducts to supply water; for the erection and keeping in repair suitable engine houses; for organizing and maintaining an efficient fire department; for ringing one of the bells and keeping in repair the public Clock within said corporation.

Sec. III. The first meeting was called at the Town Hall in Skowhegan on Monday, July 5, 1852. James B. Dascomb was chosen moderator; William Philbrick, clerk; E. H. Neil, James B. Dascomb, William Philbrick, assessors; Moses Littlefield, Treas. and Alex. Weston, Collector (@5%). The charter for the corporation was accepted. On July 21, following, the By Laws and Provisions of the Corporation were adopted.

Geo. S. Webb, the present clerk, has filled that office since 1876, and was preceded by A. S. Emery for ten years.

The name of the corporation was not changed from Skowhegan and Bloomfield, to Skowhegan, until about 1870.

The present officers of the Corporation are: Geo. S. Webb, clerk; Chas. E. Young, R. H. Townsend and Geo. E. Sampson, assessors; Geo. N. Page, treasurer; F. A. Nolin, auditor; Frank Thompson, chief of police; B. A. Sawyer, collector (@1½%).

FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY AND MEMORIAL HALL.

The present Free Public Library in Skowhegan is the outgrowth of other libraries established in the earlier days of the town. The first settlers of Canaan had a good number of books for the times, and showed their desire for more by subscribing as early as 1798, to the shares of the Canaan Social Library, which was in existence until 1830. After this the people depended upon private and circulating libraries until 1867, when the Skowhegan Library Association was incorporated, which supplied the needs of the town in greater or less degree for twenty years.

When the present library building was completed the stockholders of the Library Association very generously donated to the trustees their entire library of over four thousand volumes.

Ex-Gov. Coburn bequeathed to the trustees of Bloomfield Academy thirty thousand dollars to be used to found a free public library. To make this bequest of use to the town it was necessary to have a suitable building in which to house the books. In 1889 the library building was erected at a cost of twenty thousand dollars, the town giving five thousand dollars for a memorial room to the men of the town who served in the Civil War.

On the first floor are the commodious reading, delivery, and reference rooms, and in the rear the stack room, where the present library of ten thousand volumes is accommodated, with space above for nearly as many volumes more. The second floor of the main building is made into pleasant parlors where many of the clubs of the town hold their regular meetings.

Beginning with 1903 the town has appropriated five hundred dollars per year for the benefit of the library, which has enabled the trustees to make very liberal rules in regard to the loaning of books.

That the library holds an important part in the life of the town no one could doubt to see the people of all ages that frequent the rooms.

COURT HOUSE

The beautiful red brick Court House, the gift to the County of Somerset, from the late Ex-Gov. Abner Coburn, was erected and presented to the County by him, in 1873; thus making Skowhegan the County seat, removing the same from the town of Norridgewock. The building was erected under the supervision of John Russell, S. B. Walton, and E. G. Pratt, County Commissioners. C. E. Douglass was the architect, and Foster & Dutton, builders. The building stands at the corner of Court and Main streets. On the opposite corner is now located the County Jail, built here in 1893, to supersede that formerly used at Norridgewock. Extensive repairs and improvements are now being made on the Court House, making it a thoroughly modern and beautiful structure.

BANKS IN SKOWHEGAN

OLD SKOWHEGAN BANK

The Skowhegan Bank was incorporated on March 4, 1833, and was situated on Skowhegan Island. The first officers of this institution were Samuel Weston, president; Samuel Philbrick, cashier; Samuel Weston, Isaac Farrar, J. G. Neil, Abner Coburn, Edmund Pearson, John Ware and Calvin Selden, directors. This bank began with a capital of $75,000, and did the banking business for all the surrounding section of territory for several years. This was the first bank established in Somerset County.

The First National Bank of this town was organized as a State bank. and incorporated under the National Banking Laws in 1863. Its capital stock was $150,000. This institution has been a very successful one, weathering all the storms of the commercial world, and has been of much benefit to the community in which it has done a large business. The board of directors includes the following: A. H. Weston, L. C. Emery, George N. Page and E. P. Page. The president is A. H. Weston, and the cashier, George N. Page.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK

This institution was organized in 1864. It has a capital stock of $125,000. This bank occupies a very thoroughly equipped and modern place of business at 87 Water Street. For the first five years, five per cent. was paid on its stock, for the next fourteen years, eight per cent. and now it pays about six per cent. and has none of its stock in the open market. Its present officers are: John R. McLellan, president; James Fellows, cashier.

SKOWHEGAN SAVINGS BANK

This institution was organized in this town in 1869 and the time which has elapsed since that date has been one of almost uninterrupted prosperity for this bank.

It is in the same building with the First National Bank and has resources to the extent of nearly $1,750,000.

The president is A. H. Weston, the treasurer is Edward P. Page. It pays an interest rate of three per cent.

SKOWHEGAN ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY

The present electric lighting system in this village and Norridgewock, is the outgrowth of the first electric lighting plant in Somerset County. This was established as an individual plant, which was installed by a syndicate of local business men, each of whom paid $100. The system at first consisted of 40 or 45 arc lights, mostly in use in stores and public buildings. A Scuyler machine was used, and the company called the Scuyler Electric Light Co. William Holbrook bought up the interest of many of its patrons, and finally obtained control of the plant. This system did not reach beyond the limits of this village.

The Union Light and Power Company not long after, introduced the Westinghouse Lighting Service, and run about one year, lighting the streets of this village and Norridgewock. At the end of a year these companies united, forming the present company. The first machine was located under the old carding mill, on the Island, about 1884. The first light was hung at the railroad crossing, before local parties invested in the enterprise.

The company now has six dynamos. There are 49 arc lights in Skowhegan, besides those connected in Norridgewock, and the service is one of the most satisfactory in operation in the State. C. J. Abbey is superintendent, and Miss Harriet E. Nash, treasurer. The power station is located on Western Avenue, on the Island.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Skowhegan Grange, No. 208, P. of H., was organized Feb. 16, 1876, with 39 charter members. B. M. Height was the first Master, followed by W. D. Hayden, A. R. Smiley, O. J. Hancock, Horace Eaton, Lewis Beal, Horace Beal, Ansel Holway, X. A. Withee, C. E. Smith, W. B. Whittier, Alonzo Smith, E. J. Kimball, T. G. Lord, and L. H. Packard.

Horace Beal was the first Lecturer, followed by Alonzo Smith, C. E. Smith, B. M. Height, Mrs. E. L. K. Adams, Mrs. C. A. Nolin, Mrs. S. F. Whittier, S. F. Emerson, D. S. Willey, D. H. Bartlett, S. S. Woodman, Ella H. Crowell, and Nell L. Leavitt.

Lewis Beal was the first Secretary, followed by C. E. Smith, Mrs. E. L. K. Adams, Alonzo Smith, A. R. Smiley, Eva B. Smiley, Vesta A. Withee, Ella H. Crowell, Georgia A. Tobey, S. F. Emerson, and Flora B. Leavitt.

Meetings have been held in the vestry of the Christian Church, in the vestry of the Methodist Church, and in Grand Army Hall. In 1897 the Grange erected a hall of its own, on Pleasant street, which was duly dedicated Nov. 27, 1897, where the meetings are now held. The lot and hall cost $4,500.

This Grange has steadily increased and prospered, the membership reaching 388 on the first of January, 1904. It stands as first in Somerset County, and sixth in the State in membership, and has a wide influence for good in the community.—SAM'L F. EMERSON.

SKOWHEGAN NEWSPAPERS

Weekly newspapers have been published in Skowhegan as follows: The Democratic Clarion, published by Moses Littlefield, editor and proprietor, beginning in 1841—the name being changed in 1862 to Republican Clarion—until 1868, when it was sold to Col. Z. A. Smith and the name changed to Somerset Reporter. C. A. F. Emery was associated with Mr. Smith in the conduct of the paper under the firm name of Smith & Emery. Col. Smith sold his interest in the paper to W. K. Moody in 1871 and later Mr. Emery sold his interest to Mr. Moody. In 1875, C. H. Kilby and C. A. Woodbury purchased the paper, running it two years under the firm name of Kilby & Woodbury. Mr. Woodbury then acquired Mr. Kilby's interest and published the paper about one year.

October 1, 1878, Joseph O. Smith, then Deputy Secretary of State at Augusta, purchased the Reporter and plant and very soon thereafter E. P. Mayo, then city editor of the Portland Daily Press, was associated with him in the conduct of the paper under the firm name of Smith & Mayo until 1885, when Mr. Smith bought Mr. Mayo's interest, and in 1888 sold an interest to Elmer E. McNeelie, who has been connected with the paper as apprentice, journeyman, foreman, and local editor since 1877. From 1888 until the present time the paper has been conducted under the firm name of J. O. Smith & Company. Joseph O. Smith is editor and Elmer E. McNeelie, business manager.

In 1856, Joseph L. Patten began the publication of the Somerset Telegraph. In 1861 the name of this publication was changed to Somerset Farmer, and in 1866 it was merged with the Republican Clarion, the immediate predecessor of the Somerset Reporter.

The Reporter and its predecessors is in its sixty-sixth year and is one of the oldest weeklies in Maine. It is a seven column, eight page paper, with a large circulation and good advertising patronage. Local and County news are special features. It has been conservatively Republican since it has borne the present name and for some years previous to that time.

COBURN HALL BURNED.

The most destructive fire in the history of the town occurred on the morning of December 16, 1904. According to the "Skowhegan Reporter" the fire was discovered at a quarter past two, Friday morning, in the upper floors of Coburn Hall, toward the west end, and in less than three hours, the finest business block in the village was in ruins. The exact cause and the place where it started, are not definitely known. Joseph Garnier discovered the blaze and rang in the alarm from the postoffice. After some delay on account of the fire alarm's failing to give the customary signal, the several fire-fighting companies fully responded. A special train from Waterville was sent to their relief, but their aid was not needed when they arrived at 4.40 with a steam fire engine, and Hose Co. No. 2.

The flames were considered under control by 5 o'clock, but the entire building was destroyed. The outer walls, excepting the east wall, fell outward crushing the wooden block on Russell street owned by W. P. Ordway and occupied by Drake's cigar factory, Fowler's paint shop, the Blunt Hardware Co., and Webster Rowe and the adjoining buildings on the west, owned by Mr. Ordway and occupied by C. F. Jones' insurance agency, and by Heald & Co., plumbers. The fire also entered the Ordway Block on the east, but was soon extinguished.

The total loss was $133,170 00, covered by $58,600 insurance. The heaviest losers were The Skowhegan Hall Ass'n, $55,000; W. H. Wildes, stock of dry goods, $19,000; Blunt Hardware Co., $12,500; Frank W. Bucknam, stock of drugs, stationery, etc., $15,000; Chas. F. Ward, stock of clothing, etc., $11,000; the Masonic Orders, $6,000; W. P. Ordway, C. T. Drake, F. G. Heald & Co., stock of stoves, etc.; Miss C. J. Williams, E. B. Curtis, Augustine Fowler, Chas. F. Jones, Forest Goodwin, Webster Rowe, Chas. B. Dodge and several other individuals and organizations.

GREEN & BARNARD SHOE CO.

Footwear

SKOWHEGAN,

MAINE

To the people of Skowhegan and vicinity:

We should like very much to interest you in our lines of excellent Footwear.

We write you this letter and trust that you will be so interested in it that you will favor us with a call, when you are ready to purchase.

Our stock for the coming season is now all in, and we believe we have nearly everything anyone can desire to wear on their feet. We are doing a large business, on a very small margin of profit.

Many of the best manufacturers have given us the exclusive sale in this locality of the shoes they make.

Should you ever buy a pair of Shoes here that prove unsatisfactory, we stand ready to make the wrong right.

Come in, please, and let us show you what we can do for you in the way of pleasing you and saving you money on your shoe bills.

Yours very truly,

Green & Barnard Shoe Co.

Census of Skowhegan--1905

The population of the town of Skowhegan has been arranged in families where that arrangement has been possible. In these families, in addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included. It should be borne in mind that this plan does not include the names of all former residents of this town, as the names of the non-residents appear only when one or both of the parents are still living in the town. After the name of each non-resident will be found the present address, when such address has been given to us. Non-residents are indicated by the (*).

When a daughter in a family has married, her name taken in marriage appears after her given name in parenthesis, the name preceded by a small m, thus: (m).

Following the names of the population is the occupation, also the street and number, or postoffice address, or rural free delivery route. To designate the occupations we have used the more common abbreviations and contractions, as follows: Farmer—far; carpenter—car; railroad service—R R ser; student, a member of an advanced institution of learning—stu; pupil, a member of a lower grade of schools (including all who have reached the age of five years)—pl; housework—ho; laborer—lab; physician and surgeon—phy & sur; clergyman—clerg; merchant—mer; teacher—tr; blacksmith—blk; clerk—cl; book-keeper—bk kpr; lawyer—law; mechanic—mech; machinest—mach; engineer—eng; maker—mkr; worker—wkr; work—wk; shoe shop work—s s work; cotton or woolen mill operative—mill op, or mill wk; electrician—elec; painter—ptr; carriage work—car wk; dress maker—dr mkr; insurance—ins; traveling salesman, or commercial traveler—sales, or coml trav; music teacher—mus tr; operative in oil cloth shop—o c factory.

This Census was taken expressly for this work during the winter of 1904-'05, by B. V. Davis, Kents Hill, Maine.
